

WEATHERHEAD SCHOLARS PROGRAM

Call for Applications | Weatherhead Scholars Program 2023–2024

The Weatherhead Center for International Affairs invites visiting faculty, prospective postdoctoral fellows, and experienced practitioners to apply to the Weatherhead Scholars Program for academic year 2023–2024. During their time in residence, scholars and fellows are expected to contribute to Center’s many intellectual activities, including participating in the biweekly WSP seminar series, joining research clusters and/or contributing to Epicenter, and engaging with the student communities. Scholars and fellows will have a desk in a shared office and access to Harvard’s vast library system, and may audit courses with the instructor’s permission if they so choose.

- Visiting Scholars: We will consider faculty in the social sciences from other universities and programs, as well as academics employed by think tanks. They should be able to secure their own funding from sabbatical salary or external grants.
- Postdoctoral Researchers: We will consider individuals who have obtained their PhDs in the last three calendar years, or who will have defended by the start of their academic appointment. Some postdoctoral fellowship funding is available through the Weatherhead Center (see below).
- Experienced Practitioners: We will consider practitioners with an established record of professional achievement, including civil servants, heads of NGOs, and journalists, among others. All visiting fellows are expected to pursue a research project.

Applications should be submitted online by November 1, 2022 at 11:59 pm. Practitioner fellows will be considered on a rolling basis through March 1, 2023.

Postdoctoral Fellowships

Two funded postdoctoral fellowship opportunities will be available in 2023–2024 through the Weatherhead Scholars Program:

- 1) The Raphael Morrison Dorman fellowship supports up to four postdoctoral fellows annually (stipend plus health insurance).
- 2) The Weatherhead Center is pleased to announce the Hicham Alaoui Postdoctoral Fellowship to support research on the Middle East/North Africa region and/or climate change. One academic-year fellowship will be awarded in 2023–2024 (stipend plus health insurance).

Interested candidates for either fellowship are invited to apply to the Weatherhead Scholars Program by the deadline of November 1.
